

California Cool

THE PROJECT

Building this home from the ground up gave Maxim Gaudreault, of the Maxim Building Group, an opportunity to determine every aspect of the project, from where to site the home, to overall design, to paint colors on the walls.

THE CRAFT

Gaudreault placed the house on a natural rise, affording beautiful views. The unassuming farmhouse-style home blends seamlessly with its surroundings while giving off definite California-rancher cool vibes. It also hides 5,000 square feet of living space! The primary suite occupies one wing, guest rooms the other. A large kitchen/family room, with vaulted ceilings and walls of glass, offers generous living and entertaining spaces. | Architecture: Amy M. Taylor Design
